Dear Thevindu,

We're having a lovely time here in NuwaraEliya, with my mom and dad. But the weather isn't very good. We're staying in a comfortable hotel near Gregory lake. We have a spectacular view of the town. Yesterday we went to see Lover's Leap. It was really fantastic. Today we hope to go for a boat ride in Gregory lake. Tomorrow we'll be going to Hortan Plains.

Sorry, I missed the Science exhibition.

Give my regards to Sirimath.

With love,

Dinuga

Test 15

Read the text and answer the questions.

This is Warren's story exactly as he told it to his colleague. It was just before the bell and this fourth grade girl came into the principal's office dragging her school bag. She opened the bag and struggled to life out a very large tin money box. You know the type of money box, the one that has a 50 US dollar note embossed on the side. She lifted the large money box onto the table and pushed it across to me. When I picked it up I had to use two hands to lift it-it was that heavy.

When I asked her what the money box was for, she just said, "It's money for the children affected by the fire". "How much is in here?" I asked, "I don't know," she said. "But I have been saving it all my life." And then she zipped up her bag, smiled and quietly left the office. This young fourth grade student, Nadeesha had just donated her life savings! Warren, the Principal, said he was overwhelmed by the moment.

The amount doesn't matter of course but you might like to know that the money box contained 457 US dollars and two pennies. The Teachers who held it, and many did, said it weighed several kilos. And all were caught by the sentiment when the story was first shared in the Denistone East Public School staffroom. "There was not a single dry eye in the room." Warren said.

Nadeesha was born in Australia, her parents are from Sri Lanka. By the way, those two pennies from Nadeesha's money box are now in the Principal's top drawer - no doubt set to reappear as the story becomes part of school legend.

(1) Select the most suitable phrase and underline it.
