☞ Read the passage and answer the questions.

An Indonesian folktale tells the story of a fisherman who always wanted more than what he already had.

"If only I were rich!" was the thought constantly on his mind. He would never have to fish again. He would build a large house for himself and have hordes of Servants to wait on him.

One day, when the fisherman was at sea, something heavy got entangled in his fishing net. Cursing his bad luck, he hauled the net in. Something shiny caught his eyes it was a gold chain that was 'caught' in the net!

"Gold! I'll be rich!" Visions of his day dreams coming true raced through his mind as he began to pull in the gold chain. His small boat began to sink due to the weight of the gold, but the man was too greedy to stop. Soon, water was rushing into the boat.

Still, the man continued pulling in the never ending gold chain. The boat eventually capsized and the gold chain sank to the bottom of the sea, taking the greedy fisherman with it.

Test - 15

Read the passage and answer the questions.

A boat was taking a large number of Children from the shore of the island to a ship, when suddenly one of the children pointed to the white waves thrown off the front of the boat as it cut through the water. All the children who had never been in a boat before, rushed forward together in spite of the warning shouts of the schoolmaster with them. Their weight pressed the front of the boat under the water, a wave came, and in a second the boat sank and they were all left struggling in the water.

A second boat was sent at once from the ship to the place of the accident. Those members of the ships crew who were on the shore swam out to save as many children as they could. One of the crew, who was fishing from some rocks near the camp, stopped only to put his wrist - watch on a rock and swam out fully clothed to help.

One by one all the children were collected up and put into the boat, some still alive, others apparently dead. As soon as the last body had been lifted in, the boat went to the camp of the ship owner on the shore where the children who were still unconscious were given aid by the crew of the ship.

Until late that night the battle went on for the lives of the children. One by one they recovered and began to breathe again without help. At last only two and the schoolmaster had not recovered and for them all hope was over.

As soon as the news of the accident reached the Village on the other side of the island, the children's parents and friends had hurried to the camp of the ship's owner to ask after their own children and to help. All through the hours of darknees the camp was full of strangers and all the valuable goods in the tents were completely open and unguarded. But not a single article was missing in the morning. All the visitors to the camp were completely honest.

Unfortunately this good record was spoilt by one thing the watch the searman had left behind on the rocks when he went to save the children was stolen while he was in the water.

Next day the ship's owner met the village priest and said "It was terrible about the children" The priest replied, "It was worst about the watch.
