Read the following poem and answer the questions given below.

Trees are the kindest things I know,
They do no harm. They simply grow,
And spread a shade for sleepy cows,
And gather birds among the boughs.
They are the first when day's begun,
They are the last to hold the light,
When evening changes into night.
And when a moon floats on the sky,
They hum a drowsy lullaby,
Of sleepy children long ago.
Trees are the kindest things I know.

Read the following essay written by Amali, on how she enjoyed her vacation and answer the questions given.

I longed for the December holidays as it gave me a chance of visiting my grandparents in Anuradapura. When they saw me and my family, their faces lit up. The welcome was wonderful! My cousins were already there. What a pleasant surprise! Lunch time drew nearer. We wanted to go for a bath. But before, lunch had to be prepared. Father and my uncle went to the fair to buy some fresh fruits. Aunt prepared rice. Mother cut and washed the vegetables. Grandmother added the condiments and cooked the curries. It was pleasant to see everyone working together and helping each other. This made me understand how household chores can be enjoyable when everyone helps in some small way.

During our stay there, we spent hours swimming, washing clothes and bathing in the 'Nuwara Wewa'. I never knew that washing clothes was such fun. We always did justice to grandmother's specialities that included red rice, jak curry and fried 'thilapiya'. In the evenings we had walks and saw the paddy swaying in the breeze. It was very beautiful. Sometimes we sat around our grandparents, engrossed in listening to stories of ancient times. The cloud that sat in on the day of departure was soon lifted with the thoughts of the next holiday.

1. Where did Amali's grandparents live?
2. What was the surprise Amali had?
3. What was the pleasant sight in the kitchen?
4. How did they spend their time, during the stay?
5. Write the sentence that expresses Amali's intention to come back.
